MECCANO

is a toy that every wide-awake boy should have, for it will afford him unlimited amusement and its instructive possibilities cannot be overestimated.

Just think of building bridges, traveling cranes, wind-mills, signal-towers and many other interesting things. There is real fun in building these things step by step and in finally experiencing that thrill of pleasure and satisfaction when you realize that you have actually accomplished something. Anyone can make toys with Meccano.

MECCANO is unlike any other toy ever designed in that it is not easily destroyed and made valueless or that a boy will soon tire of and cast aside. This toy is too interesting, too fascinating, too absorbing. There is always something new to build—something different to create. It presents itself in a new light every time you use it.

Models can be taken apart and others made up of same materials. All parts are interchangeable.

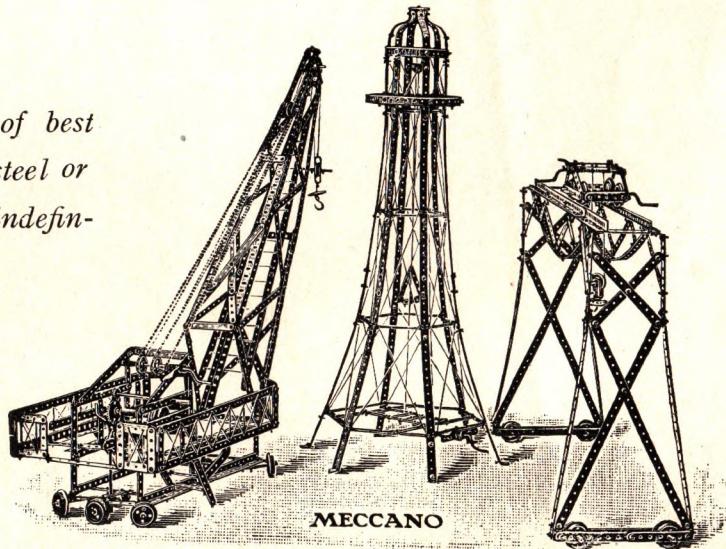

A SIDE from the amusement you can have with MECCANO there is a vast amount of instructive knowledge to be derived from it, for it actually teaches a boy mechanical construction. MECCANO comprises all the main mechanical parts used in machines—levers, beams, wheels, axles, pulleys, bolts, etc. They are all made to gauge and the necessity for accuracy of work is clearly taught.

MECCANO is made in six progressive outfits, and each outfit is complete in itself. While we show a great many models in the MANUAL OF INSTRUCTIONS that accompanies each outfit, yet there is absolutely no limit to the number of things you can make. It certainly develops your ingenuity and inventiveness, hence its value as a "mind trainer" is easily apparent.

Ask to see MECCANO. You will become interested at once and you will quickly see the great possibilities of it. It's a toy every boy will be proud to own.

All parts are made of best materials — nickeled - steel or brass—and will last indefinitely.
