PRIMUS

ENGINEERING

The BRITISH TOY for the BRITISH BOY.

The only constructional toy with wood and metal parts.

When you build a crane with Primus you use wood for the wood parts and metal for the metal parts, and don't forget that Primus enables you to build railway carriages and trucks that run on rails just like the real thing; and if you have a steam or clockwork engine, it can be used to pull them along.

Primus is a topping toy; you never seem to have finished playing with it. When you have built a model—it immediately gives you ideas for others.

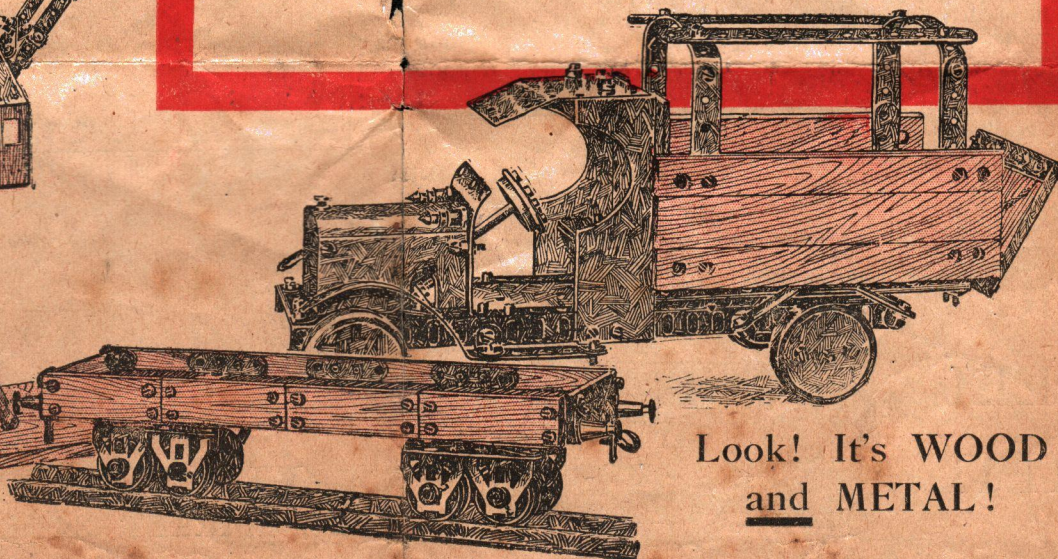

With every box of Primus an instruction book is given, which shows you how to make all kinds of models—ask the man who sells Primus to show you this book—turn over the pages, and then you will see the truly wonderful things you can build with Primus Engineering.

BOYS—ask your dad to buy you a box of Primus and be sure you tell him it must be Primus—he will recognise it by its wood and metal parts—because Primus Engineering is the only constructional toy with parts made of WOOD and METAL.
